A dashed arrow points from the "Export/Save" button in the browser to the "RefWorks" option in the dropdown menu.

Create an alert

Alerts are automated email notifications you create to deliver new content as it becomes available in the database. There are two kinds of alerts that you can create:

Search alerts — notify you when new documents that match your search are available.

Click create an alert on the search or search results page.

Publication alerts — notify you when new issues of a selected publication are available.

Click create an alert on the publication search page.

The screenshot shows the ProQuest Arts & Humanities Full Text search interface. The search term "museum" is entered in the search bar, and the results show "328526 Results*". Below the search bar, there are options for "Full text" and "Peer reviewed". A "Create alert" button is visible. Below the search results, there is a section for "Publications" with a "Back to publications" link. Under "Publications", there are buttons for "Set up alert" and "Create RSS feed". A specific publication is highlighted: "Alaska Business Monthly". The "Set up alert" button for this publication is highlighted with a dashed arrow. The "Publication information" section for "Alaska Business Monthly" shows the title, coverage from "Jan 1986 (Vol. 2, no. 1) - present (with exceptions)", and a link to "View most recent issue".
